Illustration by Jennifer K. Mann from Percy, Dog of Destiny
Percy, Dog of Destiny

Written by Alison McGhee
Illustrated by Jennifer K. Mann

Percy may be small, but his love for his precious toy ball is mighty. At the dog park—he along with canine friends Molly, Oatmeal Raisin Cookie, and large, lumbering Fluffy—runs, digs, and sniffs but the ball is always with Percy. When a peering squirrel captures Percy’s beloved toy, Percy is aghast. Unthinkable—his precious ball taken away? Will it be lost forever? Thanks to an unlikely hero, the ball—and the day—is saved. New York Times best-selling author Alison McGhee’s hilarious and original story is perfectly enhanced by Jennifer K. Mann’s artwork.
Rabbit stew? Rabbit worried!

Fox brothers Rusty and Rojo toil in their garden all summer long until they’re ready to gather ingredients for their splendid, marvelous, prizewinning Rabbit Stew. Runner beans, kale, and crunchy orange carrots are just some of what they need to make this tasty dish. All the while, their resident rabbit and his family anxiously, worriedly watch as each new ingredient is added, until the Foxes only need one more perfect addition for the meal to be complete. What will it be?

A slyly hilarious picture book with a surprisingly sweet ending, Rabbit Stew is bursting with clever details and a search-and-find element on every spread.

A lonely Cyclops discovers how to make a friend

Cy the Cyclops can make just about anything, except a friend. Even practicing skills such as making eye contact and winking doesn’t seem to help. Then Cy remembers that it’s nice to share, so he turns his talent for making things to creating a special something just right for two.

This charming tale about finding a friend celebrates kindness, generosity, and being true to yourself. An author’s note with information about Cyclopes and the many other mythological creatures in the book is included.

The Secret Life of the Red Fox

Written by Laurence Pringle
Illustrated by Kate Garchinsky

Vixen is a red fox who will spend a year hunting for food, finding a mate, escaping threats, and raising her kits. With lyrical prose amplified by fascinating facts, award-winning author Laurence Pringle creates a compelling nonfiction story perfectly suited to young animal lovers. Matched with gorgeous illustrations that illuminate the daily life of an elusive and captivating creature, this book will beg to be read over and over. Includes back matter with “More About the Red Fox,” glossary, and further resources.

Kate Garchinsky received her BFA in Illustration from the University of the Arts in Philadelphia with a focus on nature and children’s literature. This is her first picture book. She lives in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Visit penguinart.com.

One small flea leaps to stardom!

The Fleatastics

Written and illustrated by Lisa Desimini

Serafleana loves to jump, and she dreams of having her own act in the acrobatic troupe the Fleatastics. But on the fateful day of her family’s first performance, someone in the audience says the forbidden “T” word—treat—and chaos ensues, as their host dog goes wild. Will this be Serafleana’s chance to prove what she can do?

Readers will delight in noticing that beyond the main story in the text, multiple subplots unspool in the background through details and jokes in the illustrations. The quirky, tongue-in-check dialogue will have readers laughing as they pore over every page.

Lisa Desimini is an award-winning author-illustrator whose many books include The Great Big Green by Peggy Gifford. She lives in Topanga, California. Visit lisadesimini.com.

EVERYTHING’S CHANGED
The Top-Secret Diary of Celie Valentine
Written by JULIE STERNBERG
Illustrated by JOHANNA WRIGHT

Ten-year-old Celie returns with a third journal, and this time she’s dealing with even more changes. Moving an hour away means starting over, and Celie struggles with adjusting to her new school while trying to figure out which new “friends” she can trust. But even more complicated is when Celie’s older sister Jo and her boyfriend have a falling-out and Celie decides to intervene. When this leads to a situation Celie can’t handle on her own, she learns the hard way that getting into her sister’s private business is probably not a good idea. Celie turns to her diary as she tries to handle all the changes, filling the pages with her heartfelt and humorous entries, notes, and drawings.

PUPPY, PUPPY, PUPPY
Written by JULIE STERNBERG
Illustrated by FRED KOEHLER

Baby loves Puppy. Puppy loves Baby. From the moment they wake up in the morning to the moment they fall asleep at night, Baby and Puppy are inseparable. They “share” breakfast, make a mess in the garden, and even manage to find a clever way to nap together. Young children will love joining in with Baby’s repetitive phrase, “Puppy, puppy, puppy.” Sweet, spare text and humorous, heartwarming illustrations make this the perfect picture book for the youngest children.

THE EXO PROJECT
Written by ANDREW DEYOUNG

After Earth is ravaged by solar radiation, seventeen-year-old Matthew spends 100 years cryogenically frozen in a spaceship, on his way to find a planet for humankind’s resettlement. Instead of the quick death he and his team expect upon arrival, he discovers the strange beauty of the planet Gle’ah and meets Kiva, the captivating teenage girl who leads its matriarchal society. But as her emotional connection to Matthew grows, Gle’ah’s peaceful society is torn apart and Kiva’s leadership is at risk. As Matthew, Kiva, and Gle’ah itself hurtle toward either destruction or salvation, skillfully interwoven points of view propel the story forward until every unexpected interconnection is unraveled in this compulsively readable and intensely exciting novel.

ANDREW DEYOUNG is a writer, editor, and dad living in Saint Paul, Minnesota. This is his first novel. Visit andrewdeyoung.com.

Classic Poems and Playful Parodies

Written and selected by J. PATRICK LEWIS
Illustrated by JOHANNA WRIGHT

Thirteen classic poems are honored with parodies written by J. Patrick Lewis in a collection that will inspire imagination, evoke wonder, and tickle young readers’ funny bones. “Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening” is paired humorously with “Stopping by Fridge on a Hungry Evening,” while Emily Dickinson’s “Hope is the thing with feathers” is matched with “Grief is the thing with tissues” to profound effect. This unique take on classic poetry will be irresistible to teachers, children, and anyone who enjoys creative wordplay. Features poems by: Beatrice Schenk de Regniers, Emily Dickinson, Robert Frost, Rose Fyleman, A.E. Housman, Langston Hughes, Issa, David McCord, Jack Prelutsky, Carl Sandburg, Robert Louis Stevenson, and Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

J. PATRICK LEWIS was the U.S. Children’s Poet Laureate (2011–2013) and the 2011 winner of the NCTE Award for Excellence in Poetry for Children. He lives in Westerville, Ohio. Visit jpatricklewis.com.

In eye-opening poems and rich art, celebrated poet Jane Yolen and illustrator Josée Masse lead the reader on an exciting underground journey. Explore all sorts of subterranean worlds, from animal burrows and subways to caves and Earth’s tectonic plates. Science, poetry, and adventure combine to reveal that beneath us are the past, present, future, truth, and story.

This thought-provoking collection will evoke awe in readers as they discover the mysteries that lie underground.

JANE YOLEN has been called the Hans Christian Andersen of America. Her many awards include both the Kerlan Award and the Regina Medal for the body of her work. She lives in Hatfield, Massachusetts, and St. Andrews, Scotland. Visit janeyolen.com.

Soon to be featured on the back of the $10 bill, Alice Paul was one of the twentieth century’s most significant leaders in the struggle for women’s rights. She reignited the sleepy suffrage movement with dramatic demonstrations, provocative banners, and a never-say-quit philosophy. From an all-women cross-country automobile trip to hunger strikes, Paul orchestrated excitement and a real sense of urgency about the passage of the Susan B. Anthony amendment, giving women the right to vote. Her indefatigable spirit and dedication to her cause contributed to other important victories for women’s rights in her lifetime, including widespread support for the Equal Rights Amendment, which she wrote.

In this in-depth look at a pivotal woman in the suffrage movement, noted nonfiction author Deborah Kops also offers readers a sweeping view of twentieth-century women’s history. Archival images, author’s note, bibliography, and source notes are included.

THE GREAT AMERICAN FOOT RACE
Ballyhoo for the Bunion Derby!
Written by ANDREW SPENO

The Age of Ballyhoo, in the 1920s, was a time of optimism and excess in the United States. Stunts like flag-sitting and dance marathons abounded. Cyrus Avery and C.C. Pyle teamed up to create an event that would top all others: a transcontinental foot race. Despite extreme weather, poor food and living conditions, injury, and bad business practices that nearly threatened the collapse of the endeavor, the runners pushed through to try to claim fame and a cash prize in the so-called “Bunion Derby.”

This riveting story touches on the U.S. highway system, the famous Route 66, sports promotion, and racism, as black runners faced extreme prejudice in southern states. Includes archival photographs, a map of the derby route, statistics, a bibliography, and source notes.

Andrew Speno was a middle-school teacher for seventeen years before becoming a writer. This is his first book. He lives in Cincinnati, Ohio, with his family. Visit andrewspeno.com

THE ENEMY
Detroit, 1954
Written by SARA HOLBROOK

Twelve-year-old Marjorie is growing up in a confusing time. It’s 1954 and the country is embroiled in the Cold War. Marjorie’s veteran father has unpredictable outbursts, and neighbors are being deemed suspicious for any “anti-American” behavior. Her own mother is keeping a stash of banned library books a secret. And the angry teenage boy her family took in after his father’s death is hard to get along with. Worst of all, her best friend status with popular Bernadette begins to fray when Inga, an immigrant, transfers to their school. In all this turmoil, Marjorie must figure out what is right and who her real enemies are.

This deeply felt novel touches on themes that are compelling to young readers who might be struggling with problems such as peer pressure and bullying. Includes an author’s note with period photos and bibliography.

Sara Holbrook is the author of multiple poetry books published by WordSong/Boyds Mills Press, including Zombies! Evacuate the School, and Wham! It’s a Poetry Jam. The Enemy, based on personal history, is her first novel. She lives in Mentor, Ohio. Visit her at saraholbrook.com.

A PARTY IN RAMADAN
Written by ASMA MOBIN-UDDIN
Illustrated by LAURA JACOBSEN

Leena is excited because this is the first year she will fast for Ramadan, the Muslim religious festival. Since she is too young to fast each day during the festival, she decides to fast each Friday instead. But when Leena receives an invitation to a party that falls on a Friday, she faces a dilemma—can she have fun with her friends and still keep her Ramadan fast?

“... this is a compassionate family story that functions beautifully as both mirror for Muslim-American children and window for their non-Muslim friends.”
—Kirkus Reviews

“This is a beautiful tale of a child grasping her identity yet being able to embrace the differences around her. The story also embodies the forging of community spirit. This is a perfect resource for teaching about choices, sharing, and empathy.” —School Library Journal

THE WHITE NIGHTS OF RAMADAN
Written by MAHA ADDASI
Illustrated by NED GANNON

Mid-Ramadan is a special time for families in the Arabian (Persian) Gulf. These middle days are known as “the three whites,” because they include the day of the full moon, the day before, and the day after. Noor and her brothers prepare for the fun by dressing in traditional clothes and going from house to house collecting treats from their neighbors. But along with the fun, Noor remembers the true meaning of Ramadan: spending time with family and sharing with those less fortunate.

“A really excellent choice for units on diversity and multiculturalism.” —School Library Journal

GIRL WITH A CAMERA
Margaret Bourke-White: Groundbreaking American Photographer: A Novel
Written by CAROLYN MEYER

Famed photographer Margaret Bourke-White traveled the country and the world with her camera, capturing diverse images from factories to Josef Stalin. As a young girl, Margaret loved amphibians and reptiles, but her passion changed as her skill with a camera grew. Driven by an ambition to succeed, she pursued photography with unflinching dedication, always aspiring to the highest achievement. She became the first female photographer for Life magazine and her daring spirit took her to some of the world’s harshest climates and most dangerous situations.

Margaret Bourke-White’s voice and her experiences as an influential and independent woman are illuminated in this enthralling and exciting first-person novel. Includes a comprehensive author’s note with Bourke-White’s iconic images.

“A frenzy of feeling, pen strokes, and verse that seeks to excite and empower young people . . .”— Kirkus Reviews

THE KNOWING BOOK
Written by Rebecca Kai Dotlich
Illustrated by Matthew Cordell

Inspiring and wise, this story begins and ends with the sky that is always above you. In between, a young rabbit travels through the wide world, experiencing joy and sorrow and all the wonder that the world has to offer. Along the way, he chooses a path, explores the unknown, and ventures along trails on and off the map. And at the end of the journey, braver and more confident, he returns home, the place he can always count on and will always know. This beautiful celebration of life is the perfect gift to mark any milestone in a child’s life from birth to graduation.

“This picture book encourages readers to make the most of their lives . . . Curiosity and adventure are encouraged . . . The beautiful pen and ink with watercolor illustrations are as goose bump–inducing as the words of wisdom in the text. This inspirational book could be given as a graduation gift at almost any age.”
— School Library Journal

“A poem’s gentle admonishments nudge readers to open themselves up to the world . . .”
— Kirkus Reviews

“[Author] Dotlich urges readers to take risks . . . [and] Cordell’s ink-and-wash drawings give the pages life and humor . . .”
— Publishers Weekly
